Dear Mr. Saxton:

I was very pleased to meet you personally and to take part in your very successful stag party which was held in Milwaukee recently. I hope that the hams in attendence were able to learn something of teletype operation from my short discussion on the subject.

I am very sorry that we were crossed up on the matter of the slide projector, and I certainly appreciate your efforts in securing the proper size for me. Without this assistance on your part it would have been difficult to give the talk. Since the mixup was due to my error in not giving you full information on the matter, I would be very happy to take care of the additional charges that the club was asked to bear.

I was also very pleased and gratified to find that you had attended to the hotel room charges since this is not ordinarily the case with speakers who are sent by a company. Apparently your club is in good financial condition which is somewhat different than the business prospects of the average radio club.

I did enjoy my visit to Milwaukee and meeting your fine club, and I am looking forward to some future visits to your well-organized parties.

Very truly yours
